Objectives

This course introduces key features of the underground world of early imperial China based on underground architectures in Shaanxi Province, including religious sites, tombs and mausoleums. Students will be led to understand how archaeological excavations demonstrate the transformation of burial rites, religious beliefs in the afterlife, geomancy and everyday life, as well as cosmopolitanism and the cultural interaction between China and Eurasia countries throughout early and medieval China.

Intended Learning Outcomes

(Note 1)

Upon completion of the subject, students will be able to:

A. have basic knowledge of the historical development of burial rites and customs in China;
B. develop aesthetic sensibility of the splendors of the underground world in ancient China;
C. understand the philosophical and religious underpinning of afterlife in ancient China and how religious faiths are being reflected in the underground architectures;
D. observe the cultural interaction between the medieval China and Eurasia countries; and
E. develop fieldwork, library and web-based research skills relevant to history, religion and archaeology.

Subject Synopsis/Indicative Syllabus

(Note 2)

1. Chronology of Chinese history
2. Archaeological theories and concepts on burials
3. Customs and etiquettes of burial rites in pre-modern China
4. Archeological excavations of ancient burial sites in Shaanxi Province: an overview
5. A showcase of imperial power and pride: Tombs in Qin Dynasty:
6. Tombs in Han Dynasty:

Explanation of the appropriateness of the assessment methods in assessing the intended learning outcomes:

1. The quiz comprising multiple choice questions and simple answer questions, will help students gauge the key concepts in Chinese history, customs and etiquette in burial rites, theories in archaeology covered in the first week’s lectures.

2. Students will be asked to form study groups. Numbers of group members will be determined according to the enrollment. Each group will be assigned to give oral presentation after a cultural visit. The oral presentations, each lasted for twenty minutes and given in tutorials, can comprehensively assess the earlier stage of these students’ understanding of the subject.

3. The final written report, of 2500 English words or 3000 Chinese characters developed from individual contributions to the group presentations, can comprehensively assess the students’ general grasp of the subject and their in-depth understanding of some particular aspects of it.

Reading List and References

Supplementary readings:

Note 1: Intended Learning Outcomes

Intended learning outcomes should state what students should be able to do or attain upon completion of the subject. Subject outcomes are expected to contribute to the attainment of the overall programme outcomes.

Note 2: Subject Synopsis/Indicative Syllabus

The syllabus should adequately address the intended learning outcomes. At the same time overcrowding of the syllabus should be avoided.

Note 3: Teaching/Learning Methodology

This section should include a brief description of the teaching and learning methods to be employed to facilitate learning, and a justification of how the methods are aligned with the intended learning outcomes of the subject.

Note 4: Assessment Method

This section should include the assessment method(s) to be used and its relative weighting, and indicate which of the subject intended learning outcomes that each method purports to assess. It should also provide a brief explanation of the appropriateness of the assessment methods in assessing the intended learning outcomes.
