

4th GARS Online Panel Discussion

Covid-19 and Trade War: Boom or Bust Situation for Air Cargo?

9 June 2020, 8.30am-10.00am CEST

In cooperation with GARS and the Bremen University of Applied Sciences, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University hosts the 4th GARS Online Panel Discussion on air cargo. The panel will discuss the role of the air cargo industry during the fight against the Coronavirus outbreak, how the pandemic and the trade war will affect globalization and future supply chains, and how the air cargo industry could properly respond to this.

Panellists (in alphabetical order):

Anne Lange, University of Luxembourg, Luxembourg

Brian Pearce, International Air Transport Association (IATA), Geneva

Cliff Sullivan, Immediately-past Chairman HAFFA, Hong Kong

Alvin Tay, Vice President APAC Sales & Marketing, Atlas Air Inc, Hong Kong

Moderator

Achim I. Czerny, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, Hong Kong

PROGRAM

The online session starts at 8.30am CEST and involves an opening presentation by Brian Pearce and a discussion of all panel members on different aspects and implications of the trade war and Covid-19 on air cargo markets. The participants are encouraged to ask questions by using the chat box at any time to ensure intense debates and interactions between the panellists and the audience. The online event will end no later than 10.00am CEST.
