Objectives
Intended Learning Outcomes (Note 1)	Upon completion of the subject, students will be able to: (a) enhance their knowledge and analytical perspectives in understanding different aspects of Hong Kong society; (b) reflect on the identity of “Hong Kong-ese,” its historical roots and current meanings, and its relations on the development of their own personal, social, national and global identities. (c) enhance their intellectual capacity to comprehend the scope and complexity of the world in which they are living in. (d) enhance their social awareness and civic consciousness;
Subject Synopsis/ Indicative Syllabus (Note 2)	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Rethinking the Story of Hong Kong: Historical Perspective; 2. Identity Formation: Hong Kong-ese or Chinese; 3. Links with Mainland China, and the World; 4. Economic Development: Discourses and Challenges; 5. Class, Inequality and Poverty; 6. Political System and Democratization; 7. Rethinking Development: Urban Planning and Conservation; 8. Mass Media and Social Development; 9. Governance and Citizenship; 10. Marriage and Families; 11. Equal Opportunities: Race, gender, disabilities and sexual orientations.
Teaching/Learning Methodology (Note 3)	This subject adopts an inter-disciplinary approach. It draws on multiple disciplines including history, sociology, political science, and gender studies to analyze the complex evolution, development, and issues facing Hong Kong society. Thematic lecture is organized in such a way that it cuts across different subject-matter lines. Instructors will bring together different bodies of literature, research paradigms, and visual materials to analyze various topics. Each topic may use a different combination of theoretical perspectives and research paradigms. Local field trip may be arranged during Summer Term.

Major concepts, historical events, and analytical perspectives will be given primarily through lectures. Local newspapers and documentaries from TV will be used as teaching aids. Presentation will be organized as well.

After the in-class presentation and discussion, students are also required to submit a group presentation report. The report would help students to consolidate their views and feelings about their social experiences in Hong Kong.

Students will be encouraged to respond, discuss, and communicate with the instructor and their classmates in class, or through the Blackboard.

Explanation of the appropriateness of the assessment methods in assessing the intended learning outcomes:

The in-class presentation and discussion provide opportunities for students to consolidate their knowledge and analyses on different topics covered in the course through a student-centered, interactive and problem-based setting.

Written assignment requires students to reflect and enhance their understandings on chosen topics. It helps students to consolidate their views and feelings about their social experiences in Hong Kong.

The quiz is an objective method that allows students to integrate major concepts and theories they learn in class. In the quiz, they will demonstrate their knowledge and competence in the field of study, showcasing the effectiveness of their proficiency in communicating ideas, creativity and critical thinking, appropriateness and critical insights in making judgment, and handling complex ethical and social issues when understanding Hong Kong society.

Note 1: Intended Learning Outcomes

Intended learning outcomes should state what students should be able to do or attain upon completion of the subject. Subject outcomes are expected to contribute to the attainment of the overall programme outcomes.

Note 2: Subject Synopsis/ Indicative Syllabus

The syllabus should adequately address the intended learning outcomes. At the same time over-crowding of the syllabus should be avoided.

Note 3: Teaching/Learning Methodology

This section should include a brief description of the teaching and learning methods to be employed to facilitate learning, and a justification of how the methods are aligned with the intended learning outcomes of the subject.

Note 4: Assessment Method

This section should include the assessment method(s) to be used and its relative weighting, and indicate which of the subject intended learning outcomes that each method purports to assess. It should also provide a brief explanation of the appropriateness of the assessment methods in assessing the intended learning outcomes.
