

Dear Students,

Now that the public health situation is starting to improve, this note is to further elaborate on the method of teaching delivery to be adopted in the Summer Term. Similar to last semester, online teaching will continue throughout the Term, the only difference being that teachers will deliver synchronous sessions at the scheduled class time in designated classrooms. When you are inside the classroom, you are reminded to practise social distancing and infection control measures at all times.

You are welcome to go to the designated classrooms and join the synchronous sessions using your own devices. When conducting synchronous sessions in the classroom, teachers will be at the lectern. Teachers will interact with those who are present in the classroom during breaks, or if situation permits, throughout the session. You are encouraged to read the Practice Guidelines for Students Joining and Taking Part in a Synchronous Session Online or In-person for enhancing your learning experience.

Wish you a very fruitful Summer Term.

Prof. Chetwyn Chan
Associate Vice President (Learning and Teaching)