Objectives

The subject aims to develop students’ critical understanding of the form, meaning and use of language and the principles involved in the interpretation of written and spoken texts; their knowledge and skills to analyse and discuss the ways of describing meaning at word, clause and text levels and apply to appropriate frameworks for describing and discussing pragmatic phenomena, especially in professional communication; and their ability to identify and reflect on the contextual influences which affect English language in use.

Intended Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the subject, students will be able to:

Category A: Professional/academic knowledge and skills

a. Understand and apply the concepts of pragmatics to the critical analysis of the effectiveness and appropriacy of spoken and written English in professional contexts and to then reflect and generalise from the findings;
b. critically evaluate and justify the suitability of pragmatic theories and frameworks in analysing, interpreting and discussing professional interaction;
c. synthesise and effectively apply pragmatic approaches to the analysis of new (or unseen) professional interaction;

Category B: Attributes for all-roundedness

d. exercise judgment and develop intellectual curiosity;
e. engage with English professional interaction in a more considered and responsible way; and
f. employ a range of strategies for learning autonomously and collaboratively.

Subject Synopsis/Indicative Syllabus

1. Descriptive approaches to meaning
2. Deixis
3. Speech acts and speech events
4. The co-operative principle and relevance theory
5. Conversational implicature
6. Indirectness
7. Politeness phenomena
Teaching/Learning Methodology

In addition to interactive lectures and seminars, additional reading and online learning takes the learner deeper into the concepts, ideas and application of pragmatics in professional interaction.

All assignments are designed to assess students’ critical understanding of theoretical concepts and frameworks and the ability to apply these to data samples and, at the same time, to reflect on their own language use. They provide students with tasks that require the evaluation, synthesis and application of knowledge of pragmatics to the critical analysis, interpretation and discussion of spoken and written professional interaction. All of the data studied in the subject are authentic and most are drawn from professional contexts in Hong Kong.
