

Dr Wang Kun

Email: mkunwang@uibe.edu.cn

University of International Business and Economics (UIBE)

Topic: Container Shipping Market Turbulence -

Interaction Between Exogenous Shocks and Shipping Alliances

Dr Kun Wang is an Associate Professor in the School of International Trade and Economics, University of International Business and Economics (UIBE), Beijing, China. He received PhD Degree in Transport and Logistics from the Sauder School of Business, University of British Columbia (UBC) in Canada. His main research area is transport and logistics management, focusing on maritime and aviation transport competition and cooperation, government policy evaluation. Dr Wang is Editor of the journal of Transport Policy, special issue guest editor of Journal of Air Transport Management, and Maritime Transport Research. He is also the Scientific Committee Member of WCTRS, Vice-Chairman of SIG B1 (Supply Chain Management) of WCTRS, Steering Committee Member of China Society of Logistics, Committee Member of the Maritime Economy and Policy stream of WTC. Dr Wang has published more than 50 articles on transport and logistics academic journals including Transportation Research Part A/B/C/E, International Journal of Industrial Organization, Journal of Air Transport Management, Transport Policy, Journal of Transport Geography.