

THE HONG KONG POLYTECHNIC UNIVERSITY

INSTITUTE OF TEXTILES AND CLOTHING

Post Specification

Assistant Professor in Fashion Design / Digital Design (Ref. 20060406)

The Institute of Textiles and Clothing is a constituent unit of the Faculty of Applied Science and Textiles, the pioneer of tertiary education in textiles and clothing in Hong Kong, and the leading centre for education and research in the textile and clothing field in the region. The mission of the Institute is to serve the Hong Kong community through the provision of quality educational programmes, research, consultancy and professional services in fashion and textiles. The activities are anticipated to extend to neighbouring regions and the international arena. The Institute is home to a wide range of academic programmes covering subject disciplines from fashion and textile technology, fashion and textile design, fashion and textile marketing and merchandising, to fashion retailing and distribution. These programmes are offered at various levels up to Doctoral degree in full-time and part-time learning modes. Currently, there are 50 full-time academics in the above subject disciplines. The Institute is also a vibrant research department with a large number of research personnel and research students. Please visit <http://www.itc.polyu.edu.hk> for more information about the Institute.

Duties

The appointee will be required to:

- (a) teach and contribute to curriculum development at undergraduate and/or postgraduate level(s) and supervise research students in the area of fashion design or related areas;
- (b) initiate, lead and participate in research, consultancy and other scholarly activities leading to traditional and/or non-traditional research outputs such as publications in top-tier refereed journals and/or exhibitions and shows as well as awards of research grants;
- (c) lead and/or contribute to academic and departmental committees; and
- (d) perform any other duties as assigned by the Head of Institute or his delegates.

Qualifications

Applicants should have:

- (a) a PhD degree in Fashion Design or related disciplines;
- (b) sound knowledge of university teaching and/or research experience in areas such as sustainable fashion design, fashion history, digital product and service design; experience in fashion design at international level will have an advantage;
- (c) solid research and publication record in high quality scholarly journals or international/curated fashion and textile design exhibitions/shows or strong potential to publish in top-tier refereed journals or impactful non-traditional outputs as well as good potential in bidding for research grants and establishing significant externally funded research programmes;

- (d) strong commitment to excellence in teaching, research and professional service; and
- (e) excellent communication skills and the ability to use English as the medium of instruction.

Preference will be given to those who have strong research orientation and a good teaching record.

Applicants are expected to submit their fashion design e-portfolios including ten samples of their artwork, each with a brief description, together with the completed application.

Remuneration and Conditions of Service

A highly competitive remuneration package will be offered. Appointment will only be on a fixed-term gratuity-bearing contract. Applicants should state their current and expected salary in the application.

4 June 2020