Boat Trip to Tolo Channel, HK Geopark

June 17, 2016 (Friday)  Time: 8:30 am
Meeting Point: Block Z, 2/F
Quota: 40

Hong Kong’s Global Geopark displays world-class geological features. On this trip, local geological expert will take the group to sites of fascinating scenery. Participants get to explore the lesser known side of Hong Kong and visit one of the old fishing villages in the New Territories.

Fee: HK$600 per head (registration before 30 May, 2016)
HK$700 per head included:
1. Coach for round trip between Poly U and Pier
2. Boat fee
3. Tour Guide (English speaking)
4. Sea food lunch in traditional fishing village
5. Insurance

Itinerary:

Group leaves from Poly U for Ma Liu Shui Pier in the New Territories and ride in chartered boat towards Tolo Channel. We will visit the eastern section at Harbour Island on the eastern side of Plover Cove, where the oldest rock formation in Hong Kong is exposed. A second stop will be made in Lai Chi Chong to view some remarkable folds and colorful sediments. Lunch will be arranged at Tap Mun (Grassy Island). After lunch, we will walk around Tap Mun, where participants may visit an old temple and buy dried cuttlefish, sea cucumber and other dried sea food products from local villagers. After lunch, we plan to cruise around Port Island to view some beautiful rock formations in Hong Kong.

We should be back to PolyU by about 6 pm.
