

Topic: Fundamental principles and applications of how artificial intelligence makes use of fashion and textile images for decision-making

Speaker: Professor Calvin Wong, Professor, ITC

Date: 22 April 2020 (Wednesday)

Time: 11:00am – 12:00noon

Abstract:

Today, utilizing image or pictures for decision-making has been popular and crucial in whatever our daily life and work place while research on artificial intelligence (AI) technologies has been a hot topic brought by the rapid technological advancement of computing technology in a recent decade. This talk will discuss the fundamental principles and two case studies of how AI makes use of the fashion and textile images for decision-making and its challenges as well as opportunities.