

At Cobalt, knitwear is our passion.

At Cobalt, knitwear is our passion. We're at the forefront of the global knitwear industry, working as the go-to source for global retailers and brands.

We are product specialists who create beautiful trend-driven knitwear by utilizing our extensive knowledge of yarn, experienced technical and manufacturing know-how; leveraging our market intelligence and competitive sourcing capabilities to work for our customers. With speed and innovation leading the way we work; we use the latest in digital technology and work processes to constantly redefine the knitwear industry.

We are now seeking a full-time Fashion Designer (Sweater) to join our team.

What you'll do is to.....

- Develop design collections based on customer needs and market trends, ensuring alignment with quality standards and budget requirements.
- Prepare and present design materials, including trend boards, design sketches, illustrations, and CADs, for internal teams and client presentations.
- Conduct in-depth trend research and project creative directions to develop commercially viable collections, leading to detailed specifications for fittings and production.
- Monitor the design schedule to ensure timely completion in alignment with the development calendar.
- Collaborate cross-functionally with internal and external teams, including digital designers, merchandisers, suppliers, and factory technicians, to ensure smooth execution from concept to production.
- Maintain a strong awareness of yarns, stitches, and knitwear innovation. Explore new materials and techniques relevant to customer profiles.
- Perform other duties as assigned by management.

You will thrive in the role if you

- Candidates with more relevant experience may be considered for a Senior Designer position.
- Higher Diploma or above in Knitwear Design, Fashion Design, or a related field.
- Strong product and yarn knowledge, with a solid understanding of the sweater development process.
- Experience in the EU market with a strong understanding of European fashion trends and consumer preferences.
- Excellent illustration skills and the ability to produce creative and focused visual presentations.
- Proven creative abilities and a strong design sense.
- Strong command of spoken and written English.
- Proficiency in AI, PSD, and Adobe Illustrator; experience with Apex and CLO is a plus.

If you are interested, please send an email to Careers@cobaltknitwear.com.

